2 Then the challenge I ran into is exactly what you're 3 bringing up now, where do I report that because when I do an 4 accounting, and again understanding this ties into the bond
5 that I have and the requirements of the bond company, I can 6 only put in the accounting what I actually received. So I
7 can't account for Social Security money and what was paid out
8 of that. The Moore Center, because he's SSDI, they do not have 9 to report specifically what they did with that money as if 10 they're an SSI recipient. They merely have to do a general
11 accounting to Social Security. So I, again, and this matter
12 came -- I actually brought this matter before this Court on 13 another Social Security issue with the Court ruling they had no
14 authority over those Social Security funds, and even though I
15 was over the estate, could not tell the representative payee
16 what to do. So I -- you know, again, I'm trying to navigate

18 there's no rules.

19 So for the purposes of this, in this matter, what 20 appears on the accounting for my fees is what was paid out of 21 money for which I was responsible. Then there is the interim
22 payment that was made by the representative payee. And what 23 was left afterwards was outstanding fees, which the Moore
24 Center can pay with his cost of care money because rather than 25 turning it over to Medicaid, they can pay outstanding guardian
